WAGER $500.00

To Whom it May Concern.

During the thunderstorm in August, 1882, the County of Haliburton, Ont., was visited to the extent of from $50,000 to $85,000 in the destruction of dwellings, barns and buildings. Not one of the structures consumed was furnished with rods from the Lightning Rod Company of London, although there are thousands and thousands of the our rods erected upon the farm houses and barns in Middlesex Co., Ontario, by the county within the city limits alone during the past two years, the statements of a few acres to the contrary notwithstanding. The Globe Company, in order to show that in the goods manufactured and sold by them, are prepared to place the sum of $500.00 in the hands of His Worship the Mayor (or any other responsible citizen in London) as a similar amount of deposited by any person or persons who can prove, that a building oil with suitable rods from the Globe Company has been struck during either of the above thunderstorms which have visited Western Ontario. The money to be divided between the different charitable institutions in London. Orders by mail promptly answered.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The sapient writer of the west end organ measures a legislator according to his loquacity in the House. A perpetual talker is, in the estimation of that publication, a great man. A complete voting machine, we know, is indefensible, but not any more so than a talking machine. What a saving of wind and voice effort was effected when the San man was elected to stay at home!

Mr. Woodworth spoke with no uncertain sound the other day, during the debate which arose on Mr. Norquy's Bill, respecting the taxation of railways and the suits against them. He spoke spiritedly and vigorously in favor of giving all railways the fullest possible encouragement within our power as a province. This is the right kind of spirit to develop in a new and progressive province, and the journal at the west-end should make a note of it.

Certain of our eastern exchanges are discussing the collapse of the speculative boom in the Northwest as though the Northwest itself had collapsed, instead of the undue inflation. There is no fear of the Northwest coming to grief, as the Toronto Globe and Hamilton Spectator apprehend. The reign of gamblers came to an end some time ago, and the land speculator has gone back to Ontario whence he came, convinced that his occupation, like that of Othello, is irretrievably gone.

It is not always that Dr. Goldwin Smith is good authority with our excellent friends the Crit journals. Just now, however, he is in great favor with the Globe and its minor bugles throughout the Dominion. The distinguished publicist is however well known as a pessimist of the first degree. His aggressiveness is one of his strongest characteristics. Not long ago the Globe persecuted Mr. Smith with a malevolence peculiar to that journal. It is now quoting copiously and gleefully from the current number of the Bystander, because Dr. Smith, in that publication, attacks Sir Leonard Tilley's fiscal policy. This is what pleases the Globe, though that journal is well aware that it is much easier to condemn a fiscal policy for the country, than it is to frame one.

Prevalent selfishness seems to be absolutely necessary in these days degenerated, in order that one may become successful in mundane and even heavenly affairs. If the measure of success were proportionate to the amount of industry, energy and honesty expended, there would be some incentive for one becoming unselfish and even benevolent; but all experience goes to show that success in most matters depends wholly upon the amount of impudence, imposition and selfishness employed. To be industrious is to be happy, it is said, and yet the richest and the most prosperous people have not always industry to thank for their success. That, nowadays, is as we have said, rather due to bold, selfish, and even heartless dealing, than to benevolent conduct. The world seems to have more respect for the successful million, more miser than it has for the penniless Samaritan. If there is another and a happier sphere it should be solely for the good and for the poor of this one.

BONNY BRANDON

Ennys's Correspondent of

The West Lynne Times

Thus Discourses on the Beauties of Brandon.

Brandon Mail, June 25th 1883.

What an Englishman writes about the Northwest nowadays has more weight than if it were written by a dozen Canadian writers, Professors Bryce Grant, and Mr. Hargrave included; but because an Englishman named Moore has lately written up Brandon that is no reason that Brandon is less deserving of it. In fact it shows that Mr. Moore has a just appreciation of what a city should be and what Brandon is when he devotes so much space as he has devoted to the beauties, scenery and prospects of this two year old metropolis. What is particularly noticeable about this go-ahead place is its location, its streets and its people. Its situation on the brow and summit of a gentle hill is the envy of all other places that I have seen in this prairie region. Its name too is even more euphonious than Emerson, though the latter to my mind has always had a pleasant reasonance. Today the streets of Brandon are veritable boulevards. There is no mud, no fetid stagnant pools, no deep ditches such as you have in West Lynne and Emerson, no flatness which depresses and discourages. Situated for the most part on the gentle escarpment of a hill the first gleams of morning sun bathes the town in the golden light of amazing glory. To the north is the beautiful valley of the Assiniboine through which flows in its long course to the Red River that stream which bears its name. Away but a short distance to the north and protecting the valley is another sloping hill which stretches east west and north as far as the eye can reach. On a calm day such as to-day the placid waters of the Assiniboine reflect back the clear cerulean and nature's works that fringe the banks. Let the eye roam whither it will north, south, east, west, the scenery which the view affords is one that is beautiful and romantic. In the valley which is surrounded by these modest and gently sloping hills the "stinking herds" roam the long vale between. Nothing but the pen of a Scott in immortal language could do simple justice to so beautiful a picture. The only fault with it is the sombre touch of the forest in the perspective, but the popular forest lies too far to the east to limit the picture. Here must some day be wealth, also health, for here is the valley which may yet be happy and as beautiful as that of Rosselas. When the effective hand of art, in the shape of civic progress, gives a few life-like touches to the picture of the young men and noble maidens yet unborn of Brandon, will bless the wisdom of the selection, and the further wisdom which suggested that the bowers of nature may even be improved by the hand of art.

BABYLON.

About thirty-eight years after the capture of Babylon by Cyrus the Great, in 538 or 539 B. C., the Babylonians revolted against the Persians, and Darius Hystaspis, 500 B. C., marched against their city, put many of its chief inhabitants to the sword, and demolished its marvelous gates and walls, which Cyrus had suffered to stand. Later, Xerxes plundered and destroyed the Temple of Belus, one of the wonders of the world. Alexander the Great found a wealthy and wonderful city here, although it was by no means such a city as Nebuchadnezzar had left it. Soon after Alexander's death, Seleucus Nicator founded Seleucia, some forty miles distant, on the Tigris, and made it the seat of his empire. From this time the decay of Babylon's trade and influence was rapid. A little more than 150 years later the Parthians got possession of the place, burned its temples, and destroyed the greater part of it. Still another 150 years and Strabo, the great Grecian geographer, described Babylon as nearly deserted and fast becoming a desert. About fifty years later, or between 60 and 70 A. D., Ptolemy declared that it was then "decayed, unpeopled, and lying waste." When Lucian wrote (about 200 A. D.), the site of Nineveh, Babylon's great rival, was unknown, and this historian described Babylon as an utter ruin, whose place, "in a little time, would be sought for and not found, like Nineveh." It had been abandoned to wild beasts, and the last mention of it made in the writings of the old historians represents it as used by the Persian Kings for a hunting park, where they pursued the wild boar, leopard, tiger, and other fiercest of wild beasts. The prophecies of the Hebrew prophets and prediction of Lucian were literally fulfilled, and the very site of Babylon was unknown for centuries. Only within the present century have the explorations of Rich, Layard and others located it with reasonable probability at and about the squalid modern Turkish town of Hillah, about sixty miles south of Bagdad.

A CONSPIRACY TO RUIN A NEWS-PAPER.

A Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, a Justice of the Peace, several lawyers, and a considerable number of business men in the town of Red Bank, N. J., have entered into an agreement to withdraw all patronage from the local newspaper there which recently published the fact that there were a few cases of typhoid fever and malaria in the place and recommended an improvement in the sewerage system. This agreement is in writing, and those who circulated it for signature declared that the editor had ruined their business by his statements concerning the unhealthiness of the town, and they meant now to ruin him.

If the publication was true—and it appears to have been made on the authority of two reputable physicians—the paper has nothing to fear from any combination of this sort. Ten new subscribers will spring up by reason of the attack, for one who cancels his subscription. Nor will the advertising suffer permanently. A newspaper cannot be punished in this country for honestly telling the public what they are entitled to know.

THE Postmaster General has decided that a stamp cut in pieces and thereafter affixed to mail matter is not good, though the stamp has never been canceled.

LOCAL NEWS.

A TUG OF WAR—A gunboat.
To-day is the Fourth of glorious Independence memory.
Some of the boys feel better to-day. There is no stick in it now.

Cool and refreshing showers repress the aspirations of the feverish thermometer.

Boiled lemonade is becoming fashionable. It is much better, however, to cool it with a little ice before drinking it.

The last Grip is not up to its usual average. Perhaps this degeneracy is owing to the fact that Eanthorne is abroad.

A number of Brandon's beauties go a-fishing in romantic looking attire. There is some fun when they haul in a snaw-fish. Cray-fish should not be caught. They should be let alone until they get bigger.

Our Brandon fire, water and hose wrestlers speak in the highest praise of the right royal way in which they were treated by their brethren of the Portage in particular and the Portagers in general. This is the right kind of inter-town friendliness and there is nothing like appreciating it except it is reciprocating it.

There was no meeting of the school trustees last night as announced. There was no quorum. Some of the members of the board complain bitterly that certain trustees never file an appearance at the meeting and for this reason it is impossible to get a quorum in order to transact business. This negligence is unpardonable.

Government Land Sale.

At the Government Land Sale yesterday, at the Langham House, the following parcels were sold:—The east 1/2 of sec. 22, tp. 5, r. 21, w. David Duncan purchaser, at $2.50 per acre. The east 1/2 of sec. 2, tp. 9, r. 2, w. John T. McMahon, at $2.50 per acre. The sale is being conducted by Jas. Metcalf, Esq., M.P.P. for Kingston, and C. L. Walsh, Esq., brother of the land commissioner. The sale is being continued this afternoon at the same place and hour as yesterday, the Langham Hotel.

Brandon Rifle Association.

The following are the scores made at practice yesterday. A variable and puffy wind from over the hills behind the target blew most of the time and rather bothered some of the aspiring marksmen.

Local Legislature.

FIRST SESSION.

Fifth Legislature.

(Special Telegram to the Mail.)

FRIDAY, June 29.

The Speaker took the chair at a quarter to four p. m.

REPORTS.

Captain Allen presented the second report of the committee on agriculture. Adopted.

Hon. Mr. Sutherland presented the eighth report of the committee on Standing Orders; the tenth report of the committee on Private Bills; a report of the committee on Public Accounts; and a report of the Joint Committee on Legislation and Law Amendments. Report adopted.

BILLS PASSED.

The following bills were read a third time and passed:—

Bills respecting the incorporation of companies and their powers, Chap. 9 of the Consolidated Statutes.—Mr. Killam.

Bill Respecting Appeals from convictions and orders made by Justices of the Peace.—Bill to amend the Interpretation Act.—Hon. Attorney-General Sutherland.

Bill to amend Chap. 12, 44 Vic., of the Statutes of Manitoba, intitled an Act to divide the new added territory of Manitoba into Electoral Divisions and to provide for representation in the Legislative Assembly.—Hon. Mr. Norquay.

CAPITALIZATION OF MUNICIPAL DEBTS.
Hon. Mr. Lariviere's bill to permit municipal corporations to capitalize the debts was considered in committee of the whole, Mr. LeCompte in the chair.

Bills passed remaining stages on suspension of the rules.

Hon. Mr. Sutherland moved the second reading of the bill to amend Chap. 1 of 45 Vic., intitled legal profession. The object, he explained, was to extend still further the liberal concessions of last year. Those who were attorneys in the Eastern Provinces but not barristers, would be enabled under this bill to practice as barristers here, without having first to go back to the Province from whence they came, there pass as barrister and then return here and have to pass another examination and go to further expense.

Bill read a second time and considered in Committee of the Whole.—Mr. Hay in the chair.

On further suspension of the rule the bill passed its remaining stages.

LODGERS AND BOARDERS.
Hon. Mr. Sutherland moved the second reading of the bill respecting lodgers and boarders. The bill, the honorable gentleman stated, was designed to protect lodgers and boarders' property from seizure under landlord's warrant.

Bill read a second time and referred.

ESTATES TAIL.
Mr. Killam moved the second reading of the bill respecting Estates Tail. The honorable member explained that the question had been raised as to whether the English act were in force here at all; and one of the clauses of the bill declared that the English law was in force here. He explained the other provisions of the measure.

The bill was read a second time, considered in Committee of the Whole. Dr. Wilson in the chair, and on suspension of the rules, passed its final stages.

Hon. Mr. Norquay's bill to explain and amend Chap. 11 44 Vic. was read a second time, considered in Committee of the Whole and passed on suspension of the rules.

FIRST READINGS.

The following bills were introduced and read a first time.

By Hon. Mr. Norquay.. Bill intitled an Act to provide for the better auditing of the public accounts.

By Hon. Atty.-General Sutherland—Bill to amend Chap. 31, intitled an Act respecting the Court of Queen's Bench.

By Mr. Martin—To regulate the law relating to Mechanics Liens.

BILLS OF EXCHANGE, &c.

Mr. Douglas' bill respecting the procedure for the recovery of bills of exchange and promissory notes, was read a second time and considered in committee of the whole, Mr. Conklin in the chair.

SUPPLY.

Hon. Mr. Norquay moved that a supply be granted to Her Majesty. As he did not intend giving the usual explanations until the estimates had been brought down, he said he would merely move the formal motion that the House go into committee to grant supply.

The House then went into committee, Mr. Martin in the chair. Committee rose and reported.

Hon. Mr. Norquay moved that the House adjourn till three o'clock to-morrow afternoon. It was, he felt, the general wish that the business of the session should be expedited as much as possible, and for that reason he asked that the House sit on Saturday afternoon. In the meantime there was ample committee work for the members.

The House then adjourned till three p. m. on Saturday.

Winnipeg, June 30.

The speaker took the chair at half-past three p. m.

REPORTS.

Capt. Allen presented the third report of the Committee on Agriculture. Adopted.

Hon. Attorney-General Sutherland presented the thirteenth report of the Private Bills Committee. Adopted.

Dr. Wilson presented the fourteenth report of the Committee on Private Bills. Adopted.

Hon. Mr. Lariviere, Provincial Secretary, presented the first report of the Committee on Printing. Adopted.

LAW AND LEGISLATION.

Hon. Attorney-General Sutherland moved the suspension of the rules, and that Messrs Douglas, Tennant, Young, and Jackson be added to the joint Committee on Law and Legislation. The object was to increase the numbers of the Committee, so as to enable them to subdivide, in order to overtake the work. Carried.

SUPPLY.

The Premier asked a postponement of the first motion that the House resolve itself into Committee of Supply to consider the message of the Lieut.-Governor. The estimates that should accompany this motion had not yet been printed.

The order was allowed to stand.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Hon. Mr. Norquay's bill to amend the Acts relating to Marriage Licenses was considered in Committee of the Whole, Mr. Fairbanks in the chair. On suspension of the rules the bill passed.

PROVINCIAL LAND SURVEYORS.
Mr. Killam's bill to amend and consolidate the Act Respecting Provincial Land Surveyors was considered in Committee of the Whole, Mr. Bell in the chair. Report adopted.

RAILWAY TAXATION.
Hon. Mr. Norquay moved the second reading of this bill respecting the taxation of railways and suits against them.

Mr. Woodworth in a spirited speech, expressed the opinion that the policy of the Legislature and the country should be to encourage railways, and said that for that reason he was in favour of the bill as originally introduced. He believed it to be the best of policy to exempt railways altogether from taxation, except as regarded the right of way. Hon. Members, he observed, had spoken of the advantages given to the C.P.R., and of the great benefits it had reaped, and would acquire in the future. That, in his opinion, remained to be proved. It was yet an open question as to how far that gigantic undertaking would prove a profitable one, or the reverse. The most difficult portions of the line having yet to be built, it was rather early to speak about the great advantages and profits of the road. (Hear, hear.) He believed in giving that line and every railway line in the Province, and to be in the Province, all the encouragement possible. (Applause.)

The bill was then read a second time and considered in Committee of the Whole, Mr. Woodworth in the chair.

The Committee reported progress and obtained leave to sit again. Report adopted.

The House then adjourned till Monday afternoon at three o'clock.

PHENOMENON.

Three thunderstorms.

Rain fell on two days, during 5 hours, and to a total depth of 0.2 in.

REMARKS.

This week has been characterized by very hot weather.

Two cool nights resulted from the high barometric pressure at the beginning of the week, pressure then decreased and continued low, with a further and considerable depression on the 30th. This area of low pressure was accompanied by a southerly wind and very high temperature, the lowest night temperature from the 26th being 60.

The weather appears to be exceedingly favorable to vegetation. The wheat is coming in ear.

W. G. KNIGHT, Observer.

A Baby Drops from a Third-Story Window into a Basket.

Solomon Strauss lives in Philadelphia, says the Philadelphia Press. Oscar Oppenheimer, his brother-in-law, his wife and child, a little boy two years of age, have occupied a front and back room on the top story. On Saturday last, Mrs. Oppenheimer was busy in the third-story front room, and her little baby boy by some means clambered unobserved on to the window sill. Hearing a cry of fright from the child, the mother turned around just in time to see the little fellow disappear through the window. The poor mother rushed screaming down stairs and into the street, but instead of finding the mangled remains of her child on the pavement, the little one was sitting up in the basket of an old woman, who had providently been passing at the moment, while the dame stood by with upraised hands wondering where on earth the little stranger had come from. Mrs. Oppenheimer caught up her child and carried him off to the nearest doctor, who, after making an examination, pronounced him unharmed. During the excitement the old woman slipped quietly and modestly away. Such signal service, however, was not allowed to go unrequited. Hence an advertisement was inserted in a city journal.

Last night, her attention having been called by a neighbor to the notice, the old lady called on the Oppenheimers and was at once recognized as the saviour of her little boy. She said that as she was passing the house she suddenly felt a heavy blow on the shoulder, then her basket was struck out of her hand and she saw and heard the little fellow crying in that ample receptacle at his feet. The grateful parents rewarded her liberally and overwhelmed her with thanks. "It would not be me mum but Providence" said the old dame as she carted her thanks.

HASH.

It is a Standard American Dish.

A New York reporter made an extensive tour through the hotels and restaurants (both high-toned and low-down) of New York in quest of information as to the popularity of hash among the different classes of the community, and his research disclosed that the composition of the article was not, as many suppose, a "mystery," but that it was made of "corned beef and potatoes chopped up together fine, well cooked and well seasoned;" and that it was among the oftentimes called for dishes in the Windsor, the Brunswick, the Fifth Avenue and Delmonico's, as well as in the cheapest restaurants. He found one place where a ton of hash was made, sold and eaten each week, and an Italian restaurant on Pearl street where the price-list is as follows:

Coffee, per cup.....	1 Cent	Cer'd beef and cab.....	1 Cent
Tea, per cup.....	1 Cent	Boef stew.....	1 Cent
Soup, per bowl.....	1 Cent	Mutton broth.....	1 Cent
Hot, per cup.....	1 Cent	Chicken stew.....	1 Cent
Boefsteak.....	1 Cent	Hash.....	1 Cent
Roast meats.....	1 Cent	Ham and eggs.....	1 Cent

He also found that there is not a first class eating saloon in New York kept by a negro, though they have numerous small cook shops. In conclusion he says:

"There is but one high-priced restaurant in the city where hash is totally ignored. Mr. Yun Fong is proprietor of the same, and 18 Mott street is the locality. It is said that in San Francisco there is a Chinese dining-saloon which occupies the whole of a five story building. The upper story is reserved for the nobility—those who will pay extreme fancy prices for their food. The fourth story is set aside for Chinese men who are in the ring, and have the handling of other people's money. On the third floor Chinese merchants congregate, and so on down to the basement, where the common herd exercises their chop-sticks. It is also said that the tea and other articles of food, which are started in prime condition on the top floor, are handled over and over again, until they reach the basement where they are sold finally for the smallest possible prices. However this may be in San Francisco, Mr. Yun Fong conducts his saloon differently. At 16 Mott street everybody is on a dead level, and if you pay the money you can have your choice of anything in the hotel. To the question, if he had hash Yun Fong answered no, that his people, as a rule, preferred their native dishes, although roast chicken, roast duck, heart, coffee and American fish were consumed in large quantities. The prices charged in this Chinese saloon are similar to the rates in a 15-cent American saloon, with this difference; that imported Chinese food is much higher. Reaching into an immense jar Yun Fong pulled out what seemed to be a section of a dried shark and a piece of old parchment. He then went on to tell how rare and delicious these things were, and how, if you wanted a meal of them, the order would have to be given a day in advance. The price was $2.50 a bowl, but there would be enough for three Chinese stomachs in one bowl. This dish is rarely ordered. Only when a Chinaman is on an extra jamboree does he go $2.50 on one meal. To the suggestion that he might like hash if he tried it, Yun Fong answered that he thought not. Hash might do for Americans, but Chinamen would have to be accused."

A Sagacious Bear.

The Captain of a Greenland whaler, being anxious to procure a bear without damaging the skin, made trial of the stratagem of laying down the noose of a rope in the snow and placing a piece of meat within it. A bear was soon enticed to the spot by the smell of the meat. He saw the bait, approached and seized it in his mouth, but his foot at the same time, by a jerk of the rope, got entangled in the noose; he pushed it off his paw and retired. After having eaten the piece of meat, which he carried away with him, he returned. The noose, with another bait, had been replaced; he pushed the rope aside and again walked off. A third time the noose was laid, but, excited to more caution by the evident observation of the bear, the sailors buried the rope beneath the snow and laid the meat in a deep hole in the center. Once more the bear approached, and the sailors were hopeful of their success; but brim, more sagacious than they expected, after snuffing about the place for a few moments, scraped the snow away with his paw, threw the rope aside, and again escaped with his prize.—Sunday-School Advocate.
